

Flip Books

Flip books are fun to make.

You can do this project with the kids or make them for them to enjoy depending on their ages. You also can have some blank flip books ready for them to use.

How to make a flip book:

1. Cut out 20 or more six inch squares (or size of your choice).
2. Staple the pages together at one end.
3. On the first page draw a simple picture. (For example a frog with his tongue partly out)
4. On the next page draw the same frog in about the same position with the tongue out a little further.
5. On the next page extend the tongue a little further and have a fly appear in the corner of the page.
6. On the next page have the frogs eyes shift to look at the fly and have the fly move a little closer to the frog.

You get the idea. Slightly change the picture each time.

When you are done, flip the pages quickly and you will see the objects move! In the case above the frog will catch the fly with its tongue.
